AN ACCOUNT OF THE DESCENDANTS OF ARCHIBALD McCLEAN (This account is copied from a manuscript account made by from unknown sources and loaned to the copyist(William Rush Dunton, Jr.) by his sister, Mrs. Sarina Cleaver of Ardmore, Pa., in 1902.)

The parents of Archibald and William McClean emigrated to this country from Ireland about 1733. If it be true that the parents left Scotland in 1715 on account of political troubles involving a partial dispersion of the clan Maclean, the brothers, Archibald and William, must have been born in Scotland. There is nothing as yet known showing that any other members of the family, except Archibald and William, emigrated to this country.

Archibald McClean(77¹) was colonel of Virginia militia and was always known by his title. He move to (West) Virginia and settled on Roundbottom on the Ohio, which he bought from George Washington, who surveyed it. (Letters inre this were in possession of late Mr. ... who married Sarah McClean(84), and one letter relating to the purchase is owned by Humphrey McClean(81), son of Joseph(79) who lives in Moundsville). The post-office was called Archville in Archibald's honor. He had no occupation and was supposed to have been at Georgetown University, but his name is not found in the register. His son Joseph was highly educated, but his son Horatio was meagrely educated. He was born before his father moved west and the line dividing the District of Columbia from Virginia passed through his mother's bed, so that they were unable to decide his birthplace, but he always claimed Virginia because he disliked Maryland. Mary Anne(75) had one son named McClean who had hip disease and when Archibald left him as much again as he left his other grandchildren, the interest only being paid to them and ceasing on their marriage or death, Helen Ruhami(86) had congenital amputation of her left hand and Archibald made no extra provision for her, so Joseph, thinking this unfair, arranged so that she also had the extra interest. Horatio was a justice of peace, being always known as Squire. He had an interest in Joshua Burley's flour Mill at Moundsville, but had no occupation beyond caring for the farm. This was sold at his death and his second wife got 1/3 of his property, his house in Moundsville, and all of his personal property.
